NINA PARKER

Emmy Nominated Television Host

Nina Parker is an Emmy nominated television host— including the top 10 show “Buy My House” on Netflix, and of E!’s “Nightly Pop” and E! News. She’s appeared on E!’s “Daily Pop, and “Live from the Red Carpet” where she lead interviews on major award show red carpets such as the Oscar’s and Grammy’s.

Nina has served as an entertainment news correspondent for “The Insider” on CBS, and host of the reunion shows for VH1’s franchise, “Love and Hip Hop.” Parker has made numerous television appearances as a pop culture expert on popular shows such as “The Wendy Williams” show, “The Real” and “The Talk,” and as a contributor and fill-in host for “Access Live” on NBC.

She’s also hosted “Race in America” specials on Bravo, facilitating difficult conversations about racism, police brutality, white privilege, the Black Lives Matter Movement, and voter suppression.

In addition to her television projects, she made history as the first plus-size Black woman to create a line exclusively for Macy’s.

Currently, Nina is a co-host of the TBS talk series, “Friday Night Vibes,” which celebrates some of the most popular films with diverse voices in front of and behind the camera.
